AFFIRMATION OF CLIR'S STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT

Please access and read CLIR's Code of Conduct online: www.ncmrwanda.org/CLIR/code_of_conduct

Consistent with the school's vision, CLIR strives to exist as a community of brothers and sisters in Christ within which each member of the community contributes toward the discipleship and transformation of others. The leadership of CLIR stands firmly upon the sufficiency and authority of Scripture as the true foundation for all of life and understanding. And, while the school desires to see lives, homes, communities, countries, and regions of the world transformed by the Gospel of Jesus Christ, CLIR's leadership acknowledges that this impact begins within its own community.

For this reason, before acceptance into CLIR, students are expected to provide an authentic account of their conversion to Christ that is consistent with CLIR's doctrinal statement. Additionally, students must demonstrate before acceptance and throughout their time of study a testimony of Christian living that is consistent with the conviction that Jesus is both Lord and Savior of their lives. This means that a student's life will demonstrate before others a clear call to follow Christ in faith, behavior, character, and worldview.

Any student who does not conform to this code of conduct or whose behavior is considered detrimental to the CLIR's community shall be subjected to disciplinary action with the possibility of suspension or expulsion.

I have read, understood, and agree to do my best to live within the parameters established by CLIR's Code of Conduct.
